MAKING PLANS FOR JULY 4

"DEFENSE AND LOYALTY DAY" TO BE OBSERVED.

ALL ORGANIZATIONS IN

Officers Express Willingness To Co-Operate In Observance Of Day—To Have Parade In Morning.

Tentative plans for the observance of "Defense and Loyalty Day" in Maryville July 4 are being made pending final action of Governor Baker fixing this day for the observance.

President Coolidge favors July 4 as the proper day instead of Armistice Day, as was the case last year. However, it is understood that no final action has been taken but there is little doubt but that it will be observed throughout the nation July 4.

Pending the forming of an organization to have charge of the arrangements for a definite program, Maj. Rolf Raynor has been selected by Mayor W. O. Garrett to take charge temporarily.

D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce, and L. M. Eek, vice-president of this organization, will present this problem for discussion at the meeting of the board of directors at the country club Monday noon.

Commanders of all the patriotic organizations in Maryville have been seen and expressed willingness to co-operate in any plans for observance of the day, July 4.

Officers of Battery C, local military unit, have also agreed to assist in the carrying out of any program here on July 4.

Charles R. Gardner of the College Conservatory of Music has called a meeting for Tuesday evening of all band men to make arrangements for furnishing the music for the day.

The tentative program includes a parade at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 4. All persons throughout Nodaway County are invited to participate in this parade. The various organizations in Maryville will be represented. An address will be made, probably in the courthouse yard, about 11 o'clock, and Battery members will fire a salute at noon. Efforts are being made to arrange a baseball game for the afternoon.

Hart Must Serve Life Term in Penitentiary

State Supreme Court Upholds Verdict of St. Joseph Jury—Is Captured Near Elmo in 1923.

Charles Hart, captured by police officers in a shack near Elmo in the fall of 1923, two days after he is alleged to have fatally shot John Less, police cycle officer at St. Joseph, must serve a life sentence in the Missouri penitentiary, it was ruled yesterday by the state supreme court.

Hart was sent to the penitentiary July 17, 1924 and he has been in prison since then, pending action on his appeal to the supreme court.

Officer Less died two days after the fatal shooting near Third and Francis streets, St. Joseph, and on that same day Hart was captured in Nodaway County. He was returned to St. Joseph and was tried in May, 1924.

EBERT GOES TO DRAKE U.

IS RELEASED FROM HIS CONTRACT THIS WEEK.

BE FRESHMAN COACH

Means Splendid Advance for High School Athletic Director—Came Here In October, 1923.

It was officially announced here today that Harold G. Ebert, athletic director at the Maryville High School, has been released from his contract and that he has signed a contract with Drake University, Des Moines, Ia., as freshman coach. He will probably be assistant Varsity track coach.

Members of the school board said that Mr. Ebert's successor had not been named.

Mr. Ebert will take up his duties as coach of the Drake University freshman squad about September 15. He succeeds Ike Armstrong, who this spring signed a contract with the University of Utah as athletic director at a salary of $4,200.

At Drake Mr. Ebert will be under K. L. Wilson, who is athletic director. Ossie Solem, a former Minnesota University football star, is head football and basketball coach at Drake.

A Big Step Forward.

The former high school mentor, who has had such phenomenal success the last two years at the Maryville High School with practically green teams, told the Democrat-Forum and Tribune that he was sorry to leave Maryville, but he could not afford to turn down the offer from Drake University, his alma mater, as it means a big step forward for him and he also gets a substantial increase in salary.

Mr. Ebert's home is Columbus, Ohio. He attended the University of Ohio, member of the Big Ten, the years 1916-17. Here he won letters in three sports, track, basketball and football. He then went to Drake, where he was graduated in June 1921. At Drake the former Spoofhound coach was also a three-letter man.

He was named as all Missouri Conference basketball guard and all-State fullback during his career at Drake University. He was captain of the Drake track team for two successive years. Mr. Ebert is a member of the

GRAVEL ROADS TO CEMETERIES

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO TAKE CHARGE OF ROAD WORK.

POPULAR SUBSCRIPTION

Is to Be the Means for Improving Cemetery Roads--To Solicit the Week of June 15.

An appeal will be made to every home in Maryville and vicinity to contribute to a fund for improvement of roads from the highways leading to all of the four cemeteries in Maryville. A campaign will commence the week of June 15 to raise funds so that these roads may be graveled according to state specifications, a much needed improvement and a movement that is of interest to every family in this vicinity.

A committee of five was named at a meeting of the Maryville Cemetery Road Improvement Association last night to have charge of graveling roads to the cemeteries. John Price heads this committee, with Burt M. Rowley, secretary, and Nick Sturm, William Doffing and W. D. Williams, members.

Mr. Price said this morning that the subscription drive will be made by representatives from the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion, Odd Fellows Lodge, St. Mary's and St. Patrick's Churches, and representatives appointed by the city council.

It is estimated that it will be necessary to gravel approximately a road and in order to improve the roads that lead from the four cemeteries, the Miriam, Oak Hill, St. Mary's and St. Patrick's to the highways. In order to comply with state specifications for a graveled road it will be necessary to raise by popular subscription a maximum of $4,600. In case this sum cannot be raised, $3,000 was set as the minimum for the construction of a lighter type, narrow highway to the four cemeteries.

The township will put the roads to the cemeteries in condition for graveling so that the funds raised by popular subscription can all be applied toward the graveling to the cemeteries.

It is the object of the Cemetery Improvement Association to sponsor and have charge of putting roads to the four cemeteries in Maryville in such a condition that they will be passable at all times of the year, either by foot or vehicle.

Before the federal test was given the cows had to pass three clean tests by local veterinarians. The herd of Bellows Brothers was also examined by the government inspector while he was here.

RETURNS WITH THRILL

He Tried To Speak There In 1921 To State Fair Crowd That Came To See Horse Races.

Washington, June 6.—Down under the placid unemotional exterior of President Coolidge it would not be surprising if there were today just a bit of anticipatory thrill, a dash of what the returning hero feels.

For Mr. Coolidge today is going back to Minneapolis and St. Paul where, as vice-president, he was hooted down by a crowd one hot day four years ago. He goes back as the President of the United States with all the panoply of office.

He goes this time to deliver an oration that is wanted. The one he tried to speak the other time distinctly was not. But he was only a vice-president then, a standard bearer of political dogma that in those days of insurgency was not popular.

The Minnesotans on that occasion were enjoying a state fair. They had paid $2 to see some horse races and Mr. Coolidge got in on the program ahead of them. Hot, perspiring, under a blazing sun, they hooted, jeered, chattered and paid no attention to the serious vice-president who, nevertheless, doggedly finished his speech.

The trip the President starts at 3 p. m. today will wind up at the very fair grounds where this incident took place and he will speak, perhaps, to many of the very people who were there four years ago.

The occasion of his speech, to be given Monday afternoon at Minneapolis, is the Norwegian Centennial Celebration there.

CENSORSHIP AT CAMBRIDGE.

The suppression of an issue of the Harvard Lampoon, and its removal from the news stands by the police of Boston and Cambridge, for alleged indecency, brings into striking emphasis the fact that censorships and suppressions, which most people regard as necessary and legitimate in their place, lost much to their value through ill-advised and misdirected zeal, and through their failure to suppress the things that most need suppressing.

The "indecency" alleged by the police is said to have consisted in the inclusion of the American flag, in a cover cartoon based on the famous picture of "Washington Crossing the Delaware," and in a caricature of Manet's famous picture from the nude which has hung for years in the Luxembourg. We have seen a copy of the suppresed paper, and there would not seem to be the slightest ground for charging indecency on the first count. It is incredible that the editors of "Lampy" could have intended any offense against the flag, and only exaggerated patriotism, itself the worst possible caricature upon the sane and soundly wholesome variety, could have detected in the humorous treatment of the artist's portrayal of an historic incident any discrediting of American ideals or institutions. Real reverence for great things is never promoted by the suppression of good fun, and patriotism would be seriously endangered if it became intrenched behind the absurdities of chauvinistic zeal. That is not the American way.

The other matter—the treatment of Manet's picture—would seem to be one of questionable taste, but hardly a matter of calling for such drastic action as police suppression.

Meanwhile, while these events were enacting, a Boston Sunday newspaper has perpetrated what is, regardless of its legality, a far more serious offense against decency. It seems incredible, but this paper has actually published an article of absolutely no literary value, and of no significance whatever except for its appeal to lewd interests, in which a woman recently notorious in a British court trial tells, under her own name, the story of her immoral intrigue with a famous British general. Where the law spends its strength in suppressing things that are primarily of humorous interest, and in which any indecency is a matter of doubt, or of a supersensitiveness that senses meanings never intended, the actually and grossly indecent things are apt to go unchallenged.—The Congregationalist.

In this age of bluff and bluster, it is refreshing to meet a girl who talks about her "other frock."

A sophisticated woman is one who never leaves that conspicuous streak of powder under her chin.

* KATHLEEN NORRIS' HUSBAND SAYS HER FAME DROVE HIM TO WIN SUCCESS AS WRITER. *
* * * * * * * * * *

The story of how one of America's well-known novelists was driven to achieve fame by his wife's success is told by Charles G. Norris in this week's Liberty. His story reveals that the fame of his wife, Kathleen, compelled him to do likewise as the only way he could retain self-respect.

"Sixteen years ago, when Mrs. Norris and I were married, I was employed by the American Magazine," he says. "I was make-up man, art editor, proof-reader—anything and everything—and among my other jobs I read manuscripts. I used to read these at night, carrying a pile of them home each evening.

"Kathleen used to help me. This reading of other people's work led us to talk of writing ourselves. I urged Kathleen now to try her hand at some new fiction. She took my advice, and presently I was sending her manuscripts from magazine to magazine. The Atlantic Monthly accepted the first, McClure's the next five, and then followed the rest in almost a scramble of eagerness to get something from the pen of this new literary light that had risen over the magazine field.

"At the end of five years my wife's income was in the thousands, my own still but forty dollars a week. I faced the situation and squarely looked it in the face. We had started together; we had both wanted to write. She had achieved success, fame, money; I was no more than a subeditor, unknown, earning forty dollars a week."

The situation, he then says, drove him to resign his job and devote himself to writing, with the result that after five years of effort he achieved successful novels and placed himself in the ranks of successful American writers.

THE UNFINISHED MASTER PIECE.

Entire Community Should Pay For Advertising Its Advantages to All

The following is the fourth installment of an article on "Community Advertising," written for the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by D. A. Caldwell, secretary of the Maryville Chamber of Commerce. This installment deals with the essentials of a successful city.

Ralph Heilman, dean of Northwestern University School of Commerce and for the past four summers dean of the National School for Commercial and Trade Organization Secretaries, believes there are following 14 essentials to a successful city:

1. Factories, offices and mercantile establishments to furnish employment.
2. Honest and alert government, operated for service and not for graft.
3. Modern and Progressive school system.
4. Well located and properly equipped parks and playgrounds.
5. Churches with intelligent leadership, properly supported.
6. Well equipped and properly maintained public library.
7. Public utilities providing adequate facilities at reasonable rates.
8. Good hospitals and medical care for all who need it.
9. Wholesome relations between employers and employees.
10. Thrifty citizens. Saving is the source of capital.
11. Friendly relations between groups within the community.
12. A strong Chamber of Commerce for promoting community.
13. An inspired people desiring very best in realms of culture.
14. Citizens with strong civic interest and local pride.

With the foregoing as a model it might be interesting to rate Maryville in the scale of American cities.

As soon as the citizens realize that a selected and devoted few should no longer bear the burden of promoting a community's advancement, the legislature of many states will be called upon to shift this burden to the entire government unit affected.

Hamilton, O., June 6.—Dorothy Russell, 8, lay in her white bed Thursday morning dreaming that she was eating a piece of pie.

Suddenly the pie blew up with a bang and Dorothy awakened to find her uncle Floyd Russell, slaying her parents, her grandmother, her five brothers and sisters.

Dorothy was the sole survivor of the orgy of death waged by her maddened uncle.

Detroit, June 6.—Lemons went up with the thermometer here. Monday they were 35 cents a dozen at the corner stores. Thursday they were sixty cents. Last year at this time a box of 300 cost $2.50. Wednesday they were quoted at $11 while wholesalers predicted $15 before the week-end.

Is She Prettiest Co-ed?

Miss Dorothy Devin of Apache, Okla., has been given first place among eight pretty girls whose pictures were printed in "The Sooner," year book at the University of Oklahoma. "What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name; its history; meaning; whence it was derived; significance; your lucky day, lucky jewel

NINA

THOUGH Nina has a typically French sound, the name is regarded as English. However, it came to us through the French by a lengthy process of evolution. The Hebrew Channaeh was its earliest source and from this word it derived its significance of "grace."

Through the English Hannah, it came to France as Anne and was soon given the diminutive, Annette. As Nanette, it appeared simultaneously, but the French love of variety changed the latter form to Nunon and finally Ninon.

The beauty and fame of Ninon de l'Enclos, superwoman and court "vamp" in the reign of Louis XIV, spread her name afar. It became almost a synonym for charmer and the maids of several countries coveted it. But Ninon is too Gallic for English ears, so, in its transportation across the channel, the ending underwent a change and Nina was the final result. It has enjoyed extraordinary vogue in this country.

The diamond is Nina's talismanic gem. It is the emblem of fearlessness and invincibility and promises its wearer success in all undertakings and freedom from misgivings. According to an old superstition, it enhances the love of a husband for his wife. Sunday is Nina's lucky day and 3 her lucky number.

Special Series of Sermons Announced

"Heart Throbs From the Psalms" Is General Subject of Rev. S. P. Allison at Presbyterian Church.

At 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the Presbyterian Church, there will begin a series of special Sunday evening services to run during June and July. The services will be in two main parts. First will be a music and worship prelude lasting about twenty-five or thirty minutes. Then will be the sermon lasting about twenty minutes. The entire service will last from fifty minutes to an hour.

It is the plan to have a mixed quartet Sunday to lead in the singing, and to furnish special numbers. Luther A. Richman the music director of the church, is arranging this. This quartet will sing at other of the services also. Part of the time there will probably be a male quartet.

"Heart Throbs from the Psalms" is the general subject selected by the Rev. S. P. Allison, pastor of the church, for this series of sermons. The purpose is to study the books of the Psalms. The purpose is not to study certain particular psalms, said Mr. Allison, today, but rather to study the great themes or "heart throbs" of the book of Psalms. "The Psalms throb with the emotions, the aspirations, the desires of life which are timeless. They literally throb with great life lessons and teachings," the minister said.

Tomorrow evening, the sermon subject will be "Prayer in the Psalms." Next Sunday the theme will be "Children in the Psalms." This is planned to follow the Children's Day Service to be held that Sunday morning.

Among the other subjects of the series will be such themes as the following: "Awareness of God," "Figures of Speech used in the Psalms about God" "The Ideal Life in the Psalms," "Penitence in the Psalms," etc.

Next Sunday morning the sermon will be "A New Point of View." The text will be Acts 1:9. It will consider the meanings of the Ascension in present day life. Last Sunday May 31st was the regular date for "Ascension Sunday."

IN COUNTRY GENTLMAN

Gives Report of Recent Meeting At Which L. M. Eek, Then President of Body, Was Present.

The Country Gentleman for May 30, carried a story by A. B. MacDonald, "Bridging the Gap," telling how "Chambers of Commerce Get Together to Learn How They Can Work With Farmers." A report of the recent meeting at Kansas City, called by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, and the first conference of city men ever held for that purpose with delegates from eight states were invited.

Maryville was represented at this meeting by L. M. Eek, who was then president of the local Chamber of Commerce. The article has the following to say about the work of the local organization:

"Business men of Maryville, Mo., Chamber of Commerce bought a moving picture camera and took pictures of scenes and farming operations over all the county. Once a week the business men go in a fleet of cars to some rural church or schoolhouse and give this moving picture show. The farmers like it so well they always give a supper and entertainment to the visitors. That has done more than anything else to create good feeling between town and country."

As a result of this national publicity, on June 5, the following letter was received:

AROUND THE WORLD WITH UNITED PRESS.

Wichita, Kans., June 6.—(United Press)—A bond issue for states affected by its operation to pay for the proposed lake-to-ocean waterway has been made by W. B. Harrison, banker here. Harrison's plan calls for 15 states and three Canadian provinces voting a total of $250,000,000 in bonds to be retired by a toll system.

States which would vote the bonds, according to Harrison's plans include Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

Kansas City, Mo., June 6.—(United Press)—Three women jurors voted to send Harry Ragan to the penitentiary for 19 years for highway robbery and then wept for the youth.

"It breaks my heart to think of it," said Mrs. Georgia Allen.

Mrs. Carrie O'Grady, forewoman of the jury shed no tears.

"It is hard to send a young man like that to the penitentiary but it was our duty as citizens" said Mrs. O'Grady.

Male members of the jury displayed no emotion.

Lexington, Mo., June 6.—(United Press)—Two Mexican brothers took first and second place in scholastic honors at Wentworth Military Academy here this year.

Genaro Garcia, averaging a grade of 97, was awarded a gold medal for his proficiency. His brother, Robert, received a silver medal for second place. Both learned the English language since their matriculation here two years ago. Their home is at Pachucax Hidalgo, Mexico.

Berlin, June 6.—(United Press)—The industrial empire built by the late Hugo Stinnes is about to be restricted.

With Edmund Stinnes out of the management, the mantle of the great silent Hugo, Sr., falls on his son, Hugo, Jr.

This fact, decided upon at a conference with the leading financiers of Germany, means that the Stinnes concern, hitherto spoken of with awe, has had some reverses though it is still sound.

New York, June 6.—Men may attend the Rev. George Egebert's church in their shirt sleeves during the hot weather. They need not even bother to wear a collar.

Toronto, Ont., June 6.—(United Press)—As an important step toward Protestant unity, the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches of Canada will merge Wednesday into one great body to be known as the United Church of Canada.

A total of 8,771 congregations with an aggregrate membership of 2,500,000 will be affected by the consolidation which is regarded in church circles as highly significant.

After next Wednesday members of these congregations which heretofore have maintained individual churches, will worship under one roof in each of the hundreds of Canadian cities and towns.

Final details of the plan are being completed here. The general assembly of the Presbyterian church of Canada is holding its last session and will retain its individuality only five more days.

Fifteen hundred delegates will meet in the Toronto arena Wednesday to participate in the institution of the United Church.

The movement for a combination of the three protestant churches has been developing for 20 years, engendered partly through a desire for Christian co-operation and partly by economic difficulties of maintaining three separate institutions.

The Presbyterians organized the movement.

Membership in the United church will include 410,000 Methodists, 280,000 Presbyterians and about 25,000 Congregationalists.

Herrin, Ill., June 6.—(United Press)—Bootleggers are seeking religion.

This according to claims of the Williams Evangelical party which has been having a series of meetings here for the past two weeks. More than 100 conversions have been recorded and a number of illicit booze dispensers have been among the converts, leaders say.

One of the features of the evangelical service is the noon-day meeting. A number of local merchants have consented to close their stores between 11:30 a. m., and noon in order that their employees may attend the services.

London, June 6.—(United Press)—Lord Derby is reported from Liverpool to have offered to sell for one million pounds sterling (about $5,000,000) the land on which the city of Bootle, 8,000 population, is situated.

Many English nobles are now sacrificing property since they cannot afford to pay the taxes and upkeep.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 6.—(United Press)—Cold plunges will not be for Pittsburgh's sweltering thousands—for at least several weeks.

No appropriations were made for the opening of the pools.

As result it has been decided, that in spite of the terrific heat waves the pools will not be opened until June 22.

GERMAN PRESS NOT HOSTILE

CONSIDERABLE RESTRAINT OVER LATEST NOTE.

FAVORS NEGOIATIONS

It Is Understood Berlin Government, Including Von Hindenburg, Would "Disarm ..mers" First.

Berlin, June 6—German press comments on the allies note to Germany demanding further disarmament showed more consideration and restraint than previous outbursts over much milder demands.

Even the hottest voices of the press were tempered with the realization that Germany must do nothing rash and must not shut the door on negotiations.

This pacific tenor of the press clearly was due to semi-official inspiration. It was understood the government, including President Von Hindenburg, were unanimous in the opinion that the most effective answer to be made to the latest disarmament note would be to "disarm the armers."

The government and the press were bitterly disappointed by the absence in the note of a definite date when the Cologne zone will be evacuated.

London, June 6—If President Coolidge calls an international conference to outlaw poisonous gases in warfare, he will have the "full support of Great Britain," it was said at the foreign office today following receipt of news dispatches from Washington that President Coolidge contemplated asking nations to discuss the subject.

London, June 6—Germany has failed in thirteen conditions to comply with the disarmament requirements of the Versailles treaty, declares the allied note to Germany, the text of which was given out here last night.

In order to obtain the evacuation of the Cologne area Germany must, among other things, suppress the present general staff and reduce the number of German police from 180,000 to 150,000.

The strength of the German army must be reduced to 100,000 fighting men.

Lays Down Rules for Factories

The disarmament note also is understood to require the abolition of the present system of housing German police in barracks.

The note contains regulations governing the co-operation of German factories and other works capable of producing munitions.

The covering letter delivered with the note runs twelve hundred words, while the amendments outlining the allied demands and pointing out Germany's defaults, contain fifteen thousand words.

Must Give Up Munitions

The note demands alteration of certain factories in order to make impossible the manufacture of war materials. All existing munitions in excess of amounts to be stated by the allied control mission must be surrendered, including spare parts for small arms, bomb throwers, machine guns and blank cartridges.

Legislation must be enacted to do away with short-term enlistments in the reichswehr, the training of reserve cadets, military activities of associations and the import and the export of war material.

NEXT WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY.

Compiled by
The State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia.
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Sec'y.
June 7-13.

Sixty four years ago on the eleventh day of June occurred the most momentous meeting held on Missouri soil. On the afternoon of that day in the Planters' House of St. Louis war became inevitable. The conference lasted four hours, the war four years. Six men were deciding the destiny of one million. Four of these men were well known, General Nathaniel Lyon, General Frank P. Blair, General Sterling Price, and Governor C. F. Jackson. They represented the United States and the State of Missouri. Their purpose was to bring peace, their decision brought war. The conference and its purpose were controlled by Lyon and Price. In times of crisis politicians and statesmen give place to warriors. The ultimatum was the work of one man—the small, wiry, redhaired army officer from Connecticut, Nathaniel Lyon, who three weeks earlier had been only a captain and who had set foot on Missouri soil barely four months before.

In the spring of 1861 events moved fast. Men floundered and hesitated, hoped and despaired. The nation was drifting into war. Each day the ominous black headlines grew larger. Yet Missourians continued to talk and plan, act and vote, for peace. Leaders, however, or destiny, were making peace impossible and shortening its days. The state convention gave hope, but the seizure of the Liberty arsenal in April brought fear and the capture of Camp Jackson in May struck terror. Eleven days later a wave of optimism buoyed the people when the Harney-Price agreement of status quo was signed. This was followed in nine days by a wave of depression when Lyon displaced Harney as head of the army of the west. Events were happening to alarm northern men and southern. And all knew that Lyon would not hesitate to act with his thousands of men. Conditions were critical. Lyon distrusting the state leaders had decided not to abide by the Harney-Price agreement. At this juncture Governor Jackson requested a conference. The request was granted and a passport issued through the Union lines in St. Louis. The final move for peace and compromise was now begun and nearing its close.

Governor Jackson accompanied by an aide, Colonel Thomas L. Snead, and General Price, arrived at St. Louis by a special train. Word was sent Lyon who, waiving technicalities, went to the Planters' House with General Blair and Major Conant. Lyon opened the conference by delegating Blair to speak for him. Within a half hour Lyon had supplanted Blair and Price had supplanted Jackson. This was a matter for warriors, not statesmen or politicians. Jackson and Price had gone too far in act and word for the south to withdraw all, still they were now willing to withdraw much. They proposed state neutrality, no armed forces for the state, even disbanding of all state troops, protection of all men, southern and northern alike. But, and this broke up the conference, they wanted no movements of national forces in Missouri, no distribution of such forces, no enlisting of such forces. They stood for a neutral, unarmed state.

The conference was closed by Lyon, the man who had opened it. His words are preserved by Colonel Snead: "'Rather,' said he, (he was still seated and spoke deliberately, slowly, and with a peculiar emphasis) 'rather than concede to the State of Missouri the right to demand that my Government shall not enlist troops within her limits, or bring troops into the State whenever it pleases, or move its troops at its own will into, out of, or through the State; rather than concede to the State of Missouri for one single instant the right to dictate to my Government in any matter however unimportant, I would' (rising as he said this, and pointing in turn to every one in the room) 'see you, and you, and you, and you, and you, and every man, woman, and child in the State, dead and buried.' Then turning to the Governor, he said: 'This means war. In an hour one of my officers will call for you and conduct you out of my lines'."

And it was war. Within twenty-four hours Governor Jackson issued a call for 50,000 men. Within two days Union troops were embarking at St. Louis for Jefferson City. Two days later Lyon entered the state capital. And two days after, the first battle was being fought on Missouri soil on the hills of Boonville.

Mayhap you'll recall the gray-haired chap pictured on the right in the above photo. But in case you don't, permit us to introduce Honus Wagner, former Pittsburg shortstop and one of the greatest players in baseball history. Wagner, despite his advanced years, is still capable of putting up a good game for the Carnegie Elks. He's depicted with his brother, William, of Mt. SON DEFENDS DARWIN VIEW

NO NEED FOR ANY CLASHES WITH RELIGION HE SAYS.

MUST BEAR ATTACKS

Maj. Leonard Darwin Says His Father Founder of Theory Received Much Abuse.

(Copyright 1925, International News).

Cripps Corner, Sussex, England, June 6.—Another Darwin arose today in defense of evolution. It was Maj. Leonard Darwin, 75-year-old son of Charles Darwin, father of the theory. The son of the famous scientist has shown keen interest in the approaching trial of John Scopes, Tennessee schoolmaster on a charge of teaching evolution to his students. He smiled when asked his opinion, but his reply crackled with youthful vigor.

"This attack on evolution is a retrograde movement," he said, "but it is only a passing phase. No scientific man disputes evolution. Every human being originates from a cell and originally from a germ or small particle of organic matter."

Nor does the son of the pioneer in the field of evolution think there should be any clash between the adherents of evolution and the church.

"Evolution of man from some lower organism has followed a similar path," Major Darwin continued, "and there is absolutely nothing contrary to religious ideals in the development of man from an unreasoning animal more than there is in the development of man from an unreasoning baby.

"My father was subjected to a certain amount of abuse when he published his work. He took it quite calmly and the attacks died down. I feel sure American scientific men will meet these cruel attacks in the same fearless spirit, and I am certain it will be with the same result."

Major Darwin is a scientist and economist of note. He is a former president of the Royal Geographic Society and author of a number of texts on economics.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 6.—A sensational advance in oats was the leading feature in today's dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Values jumped 2 1-4 to 3 1-4 cents. Wheat finished higher. Corn dropped off fractionally.

Wheat scored substantial gains based on pessimistic crop news from the winter belt.

Selling of corn after a higher opening was in the way of profit taking.

Advises from the growing belt were that crop prospects were excellent. Strength in oats checked the downturn after a fractional recession.

Commisison houses and outside investors took oats freely. A good amount was sold for export.

Provisions advanced with packing house buying.

MONARCHS ARE HERE FOR GAME

NEGRO TEAM IS ON BARNSTORMING TOUR OF TWO WEEKS.

LEAD NEGRO LEAGUE

Arrive Last Night From Pawnee City, Neb., Where They Won Game There Thursday 5 to 3.

The Kansas City Monarchs, leaders of the National Negro League, arrived in Maryville yesterday for their game with the Maryville Merchants' Baseball Club tomorrow at the local ball park at the old fairgrounds.

They just came from Pawnee City, Neb., where they defeated the Pawnee team Thursday 5 to 3. The Monarchs are on a barnstorming trip, having two weeks between scehduled games. The next league game will be at Indianapolis A. B. Cs. Next Saturday they begin a series of five games with the Indiana team. At present time the Monarchs are three games to the good in the Negro League.

S. G. Adlesh, manager of the Monarchs, said this morning he did not know definitely what hurler he would start tomorrow against the M. M. B. C. He has three on the staff from which to choose, W. Bell, Bartley and Mandeze. It is a pretty good bet that the latter will start the game on the mound for the Monarchs. He will be opposed by Henry Buhler for the M. M. B. C., with Tommy Tobin receiving.

For the Monarchs Adlesh says he has Duncan and Foreman for catchers and will probably use Duncan. The Monarch carry eleven men on the squad, with most of them able to play at most any position. He promises that the Monarchs will keep the fans amused all during the entire game and promises to make it interesting for the locals.

The National Negro League is comprised of eight clubs that are playing a split season this year. The first period will end July 16. Included in the League are the Kansas City Monarchs, Detroit All-Stars, St. Louis All-Stars, Birmingham, Cincinnati Cubans, Philadelphia Nationals, Chicago Giants and Indianapolis A. B. C's.

The Milwaukee Giants are making temporary headquarters in Maryville and are trying to book a game with the Monarchs. Mr. Adlesh said this morning that if satisfactory arrangements could be made with the management of the Maryville Club this two negro teams might arrange for a game sometime next week here.

EBERT GOES TO DRAKE U.

Delta Tau Delta, National Social Greek fraternity.

Came Here Fall of 1923.

The new Drake freshman coach came to Maryville in the fall of 1923 as instructor in the social sciences, commercial law and athletic director at the Maryville High School, which position he ably filled the two years he was in Maryville. It is with deep personal regret that the Democrat-Forum and Tribune sees Mr. Ebert leave Maryville. He has made many intimate friends while here, co-operated to the fullest extent with the faculty of the High School and gained the highest respect of "his boys" as he calls them—the members of the Spoofhound teams that he has coached here the last two years. He has arranged a good tentative schedule of football games for the Maryville High School next fall and said that he wished he could stay here and develop the high school gridsters, who will be back next year, but could not let this opportunity at Drake University pass by.

At Drake Before.

Prior to coming to Maryville Mr. Ebert was coach of the Ashville, Ohio, athletic teams in 1917-21-22. And the year before coming here was assistant freshman coach at Drake. He was with the Spaulding Athletic Co., at Des Moines, Ia., for a time.

He took active charge of the Spoofhound eleven October 2, 1923, after the season was well under way. Seven games were played by the lightest Spoofhound team in the history of the school after he took charge. Out of the seven games five were won and the Spoofhounds amassed 147 points to opponents' 52. The crucial game of this season was with the heavier Maysville team, played at St. Joseph Thanksgiving Day on a snow-covered field.

The last quarter spelled defeat for Ebert's men because the DeKalb County team had the advantage of weight on the slippery field.

Developed Winning Team.

The basketball team that Ebert coached in 1924 was a runner-up of Class A in the Northwest Missouri district tournament, losing to Cameron. During the season the Spoofhound basketball team won seven out of ten games, amassing a total score of 241 to opponents' 138.

A successful track season was closed in 1924 with the Spoofhounds copping the American Legion meet at Albany and winning five loving cups. They also won class A division of the Northwest Missouri district track and field meet held at the College.

Starting the season with a green line the Spoofhounds finished the 1924 gridiron season with seven wins out of eight starts, amassing 123 points to opponents 61. They were again runners-up for the district title, but beaten by Maysville, the game being played at Stanberry in a heavy wind.

This last basketball season was one of ups and downs, with Ebert slowly developing a team that won the Class A title of Northwest Missouri and runner-up for the championship. In the district track and field meet at the College this year the Spoofhounds were second in class A and the boys took several points at the Cameron and Tarkio invitation meets.

This short summary indicates the continued success Mr. Ebert experienced while athletic director of the Maryville High School. Perhaps the greatest success—which in the end is most essential to any athletic coach, indicating character—is the confidence all the high school athletes have placed in their coach of the last two years. It is a known fact that they would go to any limit for him.

Furs Will Be Stylish Next Winter

Cleveland, O., June 6.—Furs will be dominant in women's coat styles for fall and winter. Fur patches applied to the body of the coat in unique designs are an outstanding note of newness.

This was revealed today in the style committee's recommendations of the twenty-third semi-annual style show of the National Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers' Association here. Manufacturers from Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Cincinnati and Toronto exhibited.

Girl models had a hot day's work in putting on and taking off fifty coats of next winter's style.

The report says winter styles will still feature the "mode masculine."

Dresses will continue to be worn frankly short, the report says.

Coats with a flared fullness, through novel cuts, panel effects, godets and pleats and sleeves narrow at the wrist are recommended.

Nodaway County People in Shanghai

No Word Has Been Received From Mrs. E. C. Wolfers, Jr., and Daughter and Horace Felton.

No word has been received from the Nodaway County people who have been living in Shanghai, China, since the recent rioting and disorders produced by striking Chinese workmen and sympathetic students. News dispatches indicate the trouble may lead to war.

Mrs. E. C. Wolfers, Jr., of Hopkins, sister-in-law of Fred R. Wolfers of Maryville, has been living in Shanghai with her daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tinkham. Mrs. Tinkham was the former Miss Mildred Wolfers of Hopkins. Mr. Tinkham is in the insurance business at Shanghai. In a letter received from them by Mrs. Roy Wolfers of Pickering a few weeks ago, they reported conditions at Shanghai were very good. This letter was sent before the recent disorders in that port.

Horace Felton, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Felton of Parnell, has been working on a newspaper, the China Press at Shanghai. Mr. Felton is a graduate of the Journalism department of the State University and went to Shanghai shortly after his graduation. A newspaper dispatch the other day said the newspapers of that city had been suspended. The last letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Felton from their son was dated April 15th.

A recent article stated the workers as cotton spinners employed by Japanese started the disorders and the situation has now been magnified to a display of nationalistic and anti-foreign feeling. Old Shanghai, hiding with a 24-foot wall its criss-cross of narrow, dirty streets and its tumble-down habitations, looks with hatred to the left bank of the Hwang-Pu, where the Americans, British French and other foreigners live under their own laws.

A Court House Bring $50.

Greenfield, Mo., June 6.—The Dade County court house here, erected in 1868 after the original structure had been burned to the ground by Confederate soldiers, has been sold at public auction for $50.

There was only one bidder, Virgil Henry, and he was forced to give a bond of $500 to remove the structure before January 1.

Harry Lyle will motor to St. Joseph tomorrow to meet Mrs. Lyle and son, Harry Mason, who have been visiting relatives and friends in Kansas City for several days.
